CHEWED UP HIS ARM

A Darlington Man Shockingly Hurt By a Vicious Horse.

CHAS. TOPPINS BADLY MANGLED.

He Takes a Neighbor to Ride in his Road Cart, and Suffers For it by Feeling the Teeth of an Enraged Saddle Horse.

DARLINGTON, May 29.—Charles Toppins may lose one arm in consequence of the attack of a vicious horse. Mr. Toppins was driving in a roadcart and overtook a neighbor on horseback. On invitation, the neighbor took a seat in the cart, leading his horse. The abandoned animal made a lunge at Mr. Toppins who bent forward to avoid him and brought the whip down on his own horse's back. He was not quick enough, however, and the vicious brute behind seized one of his arms between his teeth and crunched with all its might, making very painful and bad-looking wounds.

ELKHORN, May 29.—James Monaghan found a valuable three-year-old colt impaled on a picket fence Friday. The animal had jumped partly over the fence and the sharp points had been driven into its body.

MAN'S INHUMANITY.

Brutal Treatment of Unfortunate Jews in Russia.

BERLIN, May 29.—The Hebrew relief committee here has secured a long railway tunnel at Charlottenburg in which to shelter Russian Jews en route to Hamburg for embarkment. Boxes of clothing and necessities, enormous boilers of tea and coffee and supplies of bread and brandy are in readiness to relieve the misery of the crowds of fugitives that daily pour out of the railway trains. Many heart-rending scenes are described and tales are told of extreme suffering. Many of the fugitives had to leave on a day's notice and were compelled to abandon everything but what they stood in, while others, often octogenarians who are hardly able to walk, are seen staggering under sacks containing all their worldly possessions. In many cases the fugitives are of the poorest classes, with numerous scantily-dressed children tagging at their mothers' skirts and crying for bread. All are shy and suspicious, remembering their ill treatment at Russian railway stations, and fear fresh torments and privations if they enter the waiting rooms. A doctor attends the children who are ill from the effects of the journey. The fugitives describe how the streets in which they lived were suddenly cordoned with the police searching for Jews, who would fly to the synagogues for safety; how the doors of the synagogues would be wrenched off and troops of armed men would tie their hands and feet and plunder everything in the place, and how on arriving at the frontier the police would extort fresh bribes to allow them to cross.

WILL HE BE A BISHOP?

Sixteen of the Twenty-Two Dioceses Which Have Voted Are for the Conservation of Phillips Brooks—Thirty Still to Be Heard From.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The Sun says: Twenty-two of the fifty-two Episcopal dioceses in the country have practically voted either for or against the consecration of Bishop-elect Brooks. Of these, sixteen dioceses have given their consent and six have withheld it. Dr. Brooks requires at least eleven more in his favor before the necessary majority will be obtained. Dr. Brooks' friends are confident that he cannot fail to win, but it is not an absolute certainty yet that he will get the necessary vote. The vote by dioceses now stands as follows:

For consecration—New York, Albany, Central Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, North Carolina, West Missouri, Southern Ohio, Nebraska, Tennessee, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, Connecticut, Maryland, Minnesota and New Jersey.

Against consecration—Newark, Iowa, Western New York, Milwaukee, Mississippi, Chicago.

HEIRS TO $1,000,000.

Decision in the Celebrated Myra Clark Gaines Will Case—The Evans Paper a Forgery.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Surrogate Abbott in Brooklyn handed down his decision Thursday morning in the celebrated Myra Clark Gaines will contest, in which over $1,000,000 is involved. The surrogate declared that the will of January 8, 1855, made in New Orleans on the day before Mrs. Gaines died, and which named Marie P. Evans as sole executrix, is a forgery. He declares that the will made in January, 1855, which names William A. Wilder and James T. Christian as executors, is legal and admissible to probate.

[Myra Clark Gaines, wife of Maj. Gen. Edmund M. Gaines, was born in New Orleans in 1805. She became famous chiefly through the remarkable lawsuit in which she was involved. Her father, Daniel Clark, born in Sligo, Ireland, in 1796, emigrated to New Orleans. In 1799 he inherited his uncle's property in that place. He became United States agent before the acquisition of the state and represented the territory of Louisiana in congress from 1801 to 1808. He died in New Orleans August 16, 1813. Under the provisions of his will dated May 30, 1811, his estate passed to his mother, Mary Clark, who had followed him to the United States and then resided in Germantown, Pa. The testament appointed Messrs. Reif and Chew executors. Mr. Clark had, it was supposed, been a bachelor. It was known, however, that he had contracted a liaison with Mme. Zulime des Granges, a very beautiful young French woman, during the absence of her supposed husband in Europe. Two daughters were the result of this connection, one of whom was Myra Clark, afterward Mrs. Gaines. She claimed property in New Orleans worth many millions under her mother's will and contested her rights in the courts for over forty years. She died five years ago and her two children continued the fight with the result that her will presented by them is now sustained. The money for which she fought for so hard during her life will go to the Wilder and Christian children, her grandchildren.]

MICHIGAN.

Favorable Report on a Bill Appropriating $125,000 for the World's Fair.

LANSING, Mich., May 29.—The world's fair bill, which has been in the hands of the house ways and means committee ever since the early days of the session, was reported Thursday. A majority of the committee for several weeks has favored an appropriation of $100,000, but the fair advocates have delayed the report by earnest pleas for $150,000. At last, by way of compromise, the committee fixed on $125,000, and has reported in favor of the sum. On this sum $50,000 will be available this year and $75,000 in 1892. The bill provides for a commission of nine, six men and three women, to be appointed by the governor, who will have charge of the fund and the Michigan exhibit. The commission will serve without pay, save actual expenses.

The senate on Thursday by an adverse committee report killed the bill prohibiting the importation of Pinkerton men to do police duty in Michigan. It is believed the present laws fully cover the point. The free pass bill has bobbed up once more in the shape of a favorable vote from the house judiciary committee of a substitute bill. The substitute includes all state, legislative and judicial officers and makes it a felony for them to accept free transportation.

ILLINOIS.

Business Transacted in the Senate and House.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 29.—The senate passed the bill which requires the cities of 15,000 or less inhabitants, the submission at annual municipal elections of the question of issuing drainage licenses; repealing the provision in the revenue law requiring assessors to collect agricultural statistics passed—36 to 7. The house compulsory education bill was made the special order for next Tuesday, when it will be considered with the senate bill on the same subject. The house civil rights bill has ordered to a third reading. Senator Fern's anti-trust bill was passed by a vote of 44 to 1.

In the house the senate bill authorizing the Chicago west park board to issue bonds to the amount of $1,000,000 for park improvements before the world's fair was passed. The bill appropriating the sum of $132,500 per annum to meet the ordinary and contingent expenses of the Illinois national guard and for the improvement and purchase of ground for rifle ranges was passed.

The festival will be continued through to-day.

Serious Collision at the Evansville Trotting Park.

L. C. BREWER TOSSED UNDER A SULKY

His Horse Runs Into a Barbed Wire Fence and is Badly Cut—The Races Attract Much Attention—L. F. Holmaway's Horse Takes a Purse.

EVANSVILLE, May 29.—[Special]—L. C. Brewer was badly hurt. Two sulkies were wrecked, and a trotting horse was badly cut by a collision at the Evansville trotting park. Mr. Brewer and Daniel Jones were exercising their horses and Brewer's horse got away. He ran into Jones' sulky and was thrown against a barbed wire fence, being badly cut. Mr. Brewer fell under the sulky and was cut about the face and head.

The races yesterday were well attended. Risk won the 2:40 trot with Fox second and Nimble Boy third. L. F. Holloway's Nestwood won the 2:50 trot. The summary was as follows:

TO GET RID OF HER.

The Esmeralda Furnished with Coal at Acapulco to Enable Her to Leave That Port.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Dr. A. M. Soteldo, so long the Venezuelan minister here, informs the associated press that dispatches received from most reliable sources in Mexico state that the Mexican government ordered the insurgent Chilean cruiser Esmeralda to leave the harbor of Acapulco. The commander of the vessel said he was willing to leave, but his ship had no sails and could not depart without steam power. The government then allowed the Esmeralda to take enough coal to carry the order into effect, and she received 250 tons, her ordinary consumption being fifty tons per day. The Esmeralda sailed on the 26th immediately after receiving her coal allowance.

PLENTY HORSES IS SET FREE.

The Sioux Indian Who Shot Lieut. Casey

SIoux FALLS, S. D., May 29.—The jury returned a verdict of acquittal in the case of the Indian Plenty Horses, who was on trial for the murder of Lieut. Casey during the late Indian outbreak.

Judge Shires delivered the charge to the jury instructing them to bring in a verdict of not guilty. He explained that Judge Edgert disagreed with him upon the proposition of bringing in an acquittal but said the instructions to be given, however, would be considered those of the court. His charge was quite lengthy. He declared that in his opinion actual war existed at the time of Casey's death.

BRIGHT DAYS FOR FARMERS.

For several years tillers of Rock county soil have suffered from the low price of stock and farm products. The supply of both has greatly exceeded the demand throughout the greater part of the world. Poor crops in various sections of the United States have been counterbalanced by largely increased production elsewhere. The immense agricultural areas of the world, and especially of America, have been extensively peopled and the product of the soil correspondingly increased without a proportionate enlargement of the markets. Farmers and stock growers have been the unfortunate victims of a combination of disastrous circumstances leading from unprofitable prices to failure of crops. It is not surprising that they have grasped at every suggestion which had in it a promise of relief.

The era of depression now appears to have been passed. The products of the farm are to-day bringing remunerative returns and the world is demanding food from every field. The supply from foreign farms promises to be greatly below the demand for home consumption, and America will require a vast quantity. Reciprocity is opening up new foreign fields and the revival of manufacturing industries, long running on short time or closed entirely is also contributing its share toward establishing the proper balance of commerce which is epitomized in the trade maximum of "live and let live."

All this goes to satisfy farmers that a better day is breaking. Well tilled soil will hereafter pay good profits. The development of other industries and the growth of population has very materially increased the number of consumers all over the world. Land will increase in value as its cultivation grows profitable and the farmer will again become, as he should be, the most independent citizen of the republic.

A WORD FROM SENATOR NASH.

Senator Nash, steadfast democrat though he is, is considerable of a thorn in the sides of the bosses in the legislature. He now takes up the subject of the Dodge legacy law and says: "The law passed by the recent legislature restricting in a measure the right of individuals to leave by legacy their estates as they see fit, will, if it is possible for republican papers and republican politicians to make it so, become as famous and unpopular as the Bennett law, as it is as clearly a piece of paternalism; and it is certain to meet the emphatic objections of the Catholic and Lutheran clergy, for it cuts off, or, if enforced, will cut off a material portion of the revenue of Catholic and Lutheran institutions."

While there is no immediate cause for public alarm on account of diphtheria and no danger of the disease becoming epidemic, people should willingly obey orders of the health officer, and by all means see to it that a physician is called or consulted immediately on the appearance of throat difficulties, especially if it be a child afflicted. If taken in time the dreaded disease is more easily mastered. Delays are dangerous in all diseases.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

Ashtand Daily News: The saloons of Ashtand, eighty in number, must during the ensuing year sell four thousand drinks of whisky at ten cents per drink to get back the money paid for license. If whisky is an enemy which, when put into a man's mouth, steals away his brains, some men in Ashtand must have been born with tons of brains.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

Agnostic, Orator, Lawyer.

Robert G. Ingersoll, sometimes heard from in connection with religious topics and the Mosaic record, was born in Dresden, N. Y., August 11, 1833, and reared in Wisconsin and Illinois. He began his career as a lawyer in Shawneetown, Ill., in partnership with his brother Eben, but soon removed to Peoria, which was his home till he removed to New York. In 1873 he began to write and speak on the Mosaic record, and soon acquired a world wide fame. His speeches at Cincinnati, in 1876, nominating James G. Blaine, and many other political addresses are well remembered.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

The New Form.
 This common phrase in baseball struggle to say a man the ball doth juggle. We are not prone to say that here. When any such erratic play invites our comment, we do say He prestidigitates the sphere.

And when a player's "napping caught"—The term in vulgar parlance taught—We do not such remark dispense; We say, with meaning quite akin, The man was acquitted in An interval of somnolence.—Cape Cod Item.

Murder Will Out.

A teacher was giving an object lesson to a class of young children. Speaking of articles used in the house, he alluded to coffee cups, and asked if any of the little folks had cups with writing on. Three tiny hands went up.

"Well, what is the inscription on yours?" "For a good child" was the prompt reply.

The same question was put to the second child.

"Birthday gift."

"Very good; now let us hear what there is on yours."

"Bill railway station." [General laughter.]

"Why, how came you to possess a cup of that description?"

"Please, sir, mother brought it with her from a journey!" Tabicau!—Zurcher Tagblatt.

To a Health Resort.

I love thy mild and balmy laden breezes; Thy genial warmth I love, thy soft toned days; Thy prospect all my wearied nature pleases, And I admire thy lazy, restful ways.

But, we is me! my health is sadly broken, And earth thy ruinous seductions doth not bloom. And know the reason, Lakewood, by thy token: A waiting babe dwells in thy adjoining room.—Harper's Bazar.

The Motive.

"Did you find anything on the person of the deceased," asked the coroner, "that led you to think he had taken poison?"

"Yes," replied the witness. "We found a bottle labeled 'arsenic' in his hand. It was empty."

"From your knowledge of the man and of all the circumstances connected with this case what is your theory as to the motive that caused the act?"

"My theory as to his motive," said the witness, slowly and impressively, "is that he wanted to kill himself."—Chicago Tribune.

An Exception.

When Wiggins to his son-in-law began To counsel give on business, said he, "Thar hain't been nothin' on this arth, young man."

"At's had more setbacks in this life 'an me." Just here his daughter, mindful that they were in sparring limited by pa's caprice, Exclaimed, with roguish smile, "Excepting, sir, The old clock on the parlor mantelpiece."—Boston Courier.

Nicely Put.

"What ever became of that tall, handsome valet of yours, Lord Noodleby?" asked Miss Hobbs.

"Oh, I had to discharge him. Strangers would mix us up, ye know, and take him for Lord Noodleby, and me for the valet," returned the peer.

"Oh, dear me!" said Ethel. "And doesn't that prove the truth of the old saying, 'Never judge by appearances'?"—Harper's Bazar.

A Spring Reflection.

This world's so very, very old— Six thousand years or so— That you would think that one so old Most everything would know.

But notwithstanding it's so old, It's plainly to be seen— And growing plainer every day— The world is very green.—Boston Courier.

Presence of Mind.

Freddy—Baw Jove, Cholly, when that nasty, ugly dawg tried to bite me I just stopped still and looked at him—like this— and, baw Jove, he tumbled round and ran off. Wasn't that great presence of mind?

Cholly—It was, indeed, ole chapie. Who would have expected to see it in a dog?—Chicago Tribune.

A Wet Sheet and a Flowing Sea.

Come, darling, come, for the morning is fair, And sweet is the breath of the soft summer air. The boat at the wharf is awaiting us, dear, A fresh breeze is blowing, there's nothing to fear.

The white caps are chasing each other today Like sheep in the emerald meadows at play. Come, let us sail over the billowy sea, Come, darling, come, and be seasick with me.—Cape Cod Item.

Trying to the Reader.

"Japanese novels sometimes run up into hundreds of volumes."

"Humph!" said Wagzles. "I don't wonder that the eyes of the Japanese do as if they were bought at second hand."—Harper's Bazar.

The Mannish Girl.

She could trail the wild arbutus Up the rugged mountain side. She could play lawn tennis, kick the ball, Could swim and row and ride. She was a match for any man At any manly sport.

But the rest who ate her biscuits Went off with a loud report.—New York Herald.

Also a Hat of Stone.

She—I don't see why so many girls object to love in a cottage.

He—I was afraid you would. Sit—I am not so foolish. One of those at Newport would just sit me.—New York Herald.

The Fashionable Girl.

HE IS LITERALLY TORN TO ATOMS.

A Careless Torpedo Shooter Drops a Can of Nitro-Glycerine.

Fatal Explosion in a Frankfort (Ind.) Sawmill—One Man Is Instantly Killed and a Dozen Others Wounded.

HE DROPPED THE CAN.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 29.—Peter Hart, a torpedo-shooter, was instantly killed Wednesday evening 7 miles north of this city by an explosion of nitro-glycerine. He had exploded a forty-quart shot of glycerine in an oil well at Rome City and had returned to his magazine. Instead of depositing the remainder of the load which he had in his wagon he secreted several cans of it in a hollow stump 200 feet from the magazine. Why he did this is unknown. While so doing it is supposed that he accidentally dropped the can in the stump and the explosion followed. The report was heard for miles around, and when persons in the neighborhood reached the scene all that could be seen was a deep hole in the ground and a few fragments of human flesh scattered about to tell the tale of a man's sudden fate. Hart's team was found a few rods away uninjured. Four cans of glycerine were in the wagon still intact. Within 200 feet of the spot was stored 6,000 pounds of the explosive compound. Hart was known all through the oil country as an expert shooter. He leaves a widow and one child.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

FRANKFORT, Ind., May 29.—Frankfort was the scene of a terrible disaster Thursday afternoon. The large boiler at P. E. Kramer's sawmill exploded with appalling results. Frank Hart, the torpedo-shooter, was instantly killed, and William Day, Eric Koon, Benjamin Keys and Van Swearingen were fatally injured. Of the thirteen men employed in the mill scarcely one escaped without more or less injury. Others are suffering from broken limbs and scalds and it is difficult to determine the exact extent of their injuries. The explosion took place shortly after 4 o'clock, and the mill was a complete wreck, debris being scattered about for a radius of 300 yards. The cause of the explosion is not known, the boiler having been pronounced safe and insured only a week ago. One of the employees says that he looked at the gauge only a few minutes before the explosion, and it showed plenty of water. The bodies of some of the men were frightfully looked upon. The engineer was mutilated beyond recognition, his clothing torn from him and his body literally cooked by the steam.

HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

The President and Cashier of the Spring Garden Bank of Philadelphia arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Francis W. Kennedy, president, and H. H. Kennedy, cashier, of the Spring Garden bank, recently closed by order of the comptroller of the currency, have been arrested on warrants sworn out by Bank Examiner Drew, charging them with embezzlement of $100,000. United States Commissioner Bell gave the prisoners a preliminary hearing and held Francis W. Kennedy in $20,000, and H. H. Kennedy in $15,000 bail for further hearing Monday.

The suspension of the Spring Garden bank has been far-reaching in its effects, and many business houses have been seriously crippled by it. Thursday the Millard-Cliff Cracker Company made an assignment. It is a stock company, and in an investigation of its affairs it was discovered that Frank Benton, the treasurer, had given accommodation notes to the extent of $50,000 to Francis W. Kennedy, president of the Spring Garden bank. When this was discovered the officers of the company decided to make an assignment to protect their creditors pending a thorough investigation.

During the recent exposure of the business methods of the Keystone bank and City Treasurer Barsley the Third national bank was given an unpleasant publicity through its business connection with the institution and with Barsley, and in consequence lost within two weeks $1,000,000 of deposits. Thursday President Percy Myers sent in his resignations to the board of directors, stating that he was resigning because of the loss of the bank's best interests of the bank would be best served by his so doing.

Great Britain Promises to Co-operate with the United States in Behring Sea.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The president has received a cipher dispatch from Minister Lincoln at London saying that official notice had been given in the house of commons that a bill would be introduced on Monday to authorize the queen to prohibit British subjects from taking seals in the Behring Sea. The news has been received with satisfaction at the state department. Generally it is taken as an indication that the British government is preparing to accept the condition imposed by the president as a preliminary to arbitration and cause the British vessels to refrain from sealing meantime.

VIRUS ON TWO FARMS.

Horse Owners Still Fear a Glanders Outbreak.

WAS WEDNESDAY'S WORK NEEDED?

Many Insist That the Last Six Hanlon Horses Should Not Have Been Killed if Rigid Sanitary Measures Were Not to Follow.

The Emerald Grove glanders cases have caused much uneasiness among horse owners throughout southern Wisconsin. They fear the dreaded scourge was not extirpated by the killing of the six animals on the Hanlon farm on Wednesday. These horses exhibited no signs whatever of the glanders, but were ordered destroyed because they had been exposed by being in the same pasture with six horses having the disease.

Horse owners familiar with the situation of the Hanlon farm still have fears that the likelihood of spreading the disease has not been entirely removed, and will not be until other animals are destroyed, and the Hanlon farm as well as those communicating with it are subjected to a thorough cleansing. If this is not done, they say, the killing of the exposed horses on Wednesday was entirely unneeded for and wicked in the extreme.

Other Animals Were Exposed.

The Gazette reporter who visited the farm on Wednesday and witnessed the killing of the exposed animals, was careful to survey the surroundings of the farm and to ascertain what precautionary measures were to follow the destruction of the half dozen horses. In his investigations, he learned that a brood mare had been brought onto the farm either on Monday or Tuesday, the mare having a suckling colt by her side. This mare had been exposed nearly as much as the animals dispatched.

"What are you going to do with the mare and colt?" inquired a farm hand of Supervisor More, as the last one of the condemned animals had been appraised and was being led to the death pit.

"I don't know," was the answer.

DANGER IN OTHER PASTURES.

The reporter questioned the supervisor, who gave it as his opinion, that the mare and colt were exposed as much as the animals killed.

"In driving in here I noticed a number of horses in that pasture over there," remarked the reporter, pointing to a pasture adjoining the Hanlon pasture, the only barrier separating the animals being a wire fence. "Why are not those horses exposed as well as the ones you have just destroyed?"

Can't Kill Without Orders.

"In my opinion they are, but we have no authority to act. As I understand the law we must get our authority from the state veterinarian. He was here last Sunday, all day, and the killing of these horses is the result of his visit."

"Have measures been taken to cleanse the pastures or farm, now you have killed all the horses on it?"

"No, sir; except orders were left to tear out the mangers and hay racks in the barns and burn them, wash the stalls with carbolic acid, and give the interior of the barns a coat of white-wash."

Infection Spread by Old Posts.

The reporter on arriving at the farm noticed that Mr. Hanlon had set some new posts, and when he drove up to the group, the farmer remarked: "Drive over there to that post, I just set that and nothing has been near it; you will be perfectly safe to tie your horse there."

Some of the horses from the city had been left down at the Delavan road, a quarter of a mile from the affected farm; one or two carriages were in the barn yard, and seeing the precaution taken by others, the reporter declined to tie to a post, but handed his check rein to a gentleman who was sitting in the seat of another buggy, who willingly volunteered to take it.

Should Follow Up Their Work.

"Mr. More, from what I see and hear around here, I take it the whole farm is covered with the glanders, and it is the germ of the disease or virus. If it is in the hay racks, mangers and hitching posts, what is there to prevent it being in the pastures, on the fences, and in fact everywhere where the diseased horses have been allowed? This being the case, why not quarantine the farm until the elements at least have had sufficient time to remove all danger of further trouble?"

Was Wednesday's Killing Necessary?

"Something of that kind should be done," was the response, "yet we are compelled to act by orders from the state. If we have any more trouble out here, I think our people will demand that such a system be adopted. But so far as I can see, I do not believe there will be any further trouble. We shall keep close watch, however, and await results with a good deal of interest."

The reporter drove off the ill-fated farm with the conviction that unless further and strict measures were at once taken, measures which might require the destruction of much more property, the killing of the six exposed animals was unjustified, and that it was simply done to allay the fears of an over-excited community.

MUST PUT UP GUIDE BOARDS.

Town Chairmen Throughout Rock County Should Take Warning.

The law relating to guide boards was amended by the last legislature and it now becomes obligatory for the chairman of each town to cause to be erected at the intersection of all the main traveled roads, suitable guide boards. Failing to do so after he has been given ten days' notice, subjects him to a fine of $5 per month for each month that elapses after he has been so notified. The law is an excellent one, and should be rigidly enforced.

AN OIL CARD PANIC.

Yellow Signals Start Reports of "100 Diphtheria Cases."

SPECIAL POLICE GUARD THE SICK.

Mayor St. John Empowered to Put Watchmen at All Homes Where Quarantine Regulations are Not Regarded—Schools Will Not Close.

"One hundred cases of diphtheria in town. I counted the cards myself." This was the report that came to the board of health last night. It gave a fair indication of how the diphtheria scare has been spread, for the "one hundred cards" counted by a fear-filled citizen as he drove about the city were and bakers' placards and yellow signals for the oil wagon.

"I think there is less danger in sending the children to school than in allowing them to run at large in the city," said Mayor St. John to the board. "You see gentlemen, our school rooms are all well ventilated, doors and windows are open, and teachers have been instructed to keep close watch of pupils, and also to make daily inquiries concerning sickness, and at once send any pupil home who lives in a family where there is a case of sickness. Now if you dismiss the schools, the children will be allowed to roam around the city at will, and are far more liable to exposure."

Infected Children Huddled in a Church.

"Yes," chimed in Alderman M. Childs. "I am told the schools were closed here a few years ago on account of the scarlet fever scare, and in a day or two after the children were let out, one of our churches got up a big entertainment for children, and the church auditorium was crowded to the doors with children from all parts of the city. I think it all nonsense to close the schools at the present time, especially with so few cases of contagious disease as have been reported."

Wanted the Schools Closed.

Alderman Vankirk was in favor of closing the schools; his constituents had been to him in large numbers, and asked that something be done in this way. He was willing to do any reasonable thing to assist in getting rid of and preventing the spreading of the disease.

The board finally adopted a resolution authorizing the mayor to appoint a special policeman to stand guard at all houses quarantined, if in his opinion it was necessary to compel the occupants to obey the rules.

Special Officers on Guard.

Mayor St. John appointed five special policemen this morning for duty in the health department. They were detailed to guard the quarantined homes of the Bergman family, Western avenue; the Foley home on First street; Clough's on Gold street; Judd's on First street south, and Richter's on Park avenue.

Special Officers on Guard.

The officers appointed are: William Conway, Thomas Dooley, George Smith, William Jackson and Richard Hogan.

PUT 175,000 GALLONS ON THE FIRE.

Engineer W. B. Putnam, of the water works pumping station, was right on hand yesterday morning when the fire alarm was turned in. He had just shut down his pumps and banked the fires, after filling the stand pipe.

"I could see the heavy cloud of smoke," said Mr. Putnam, "and wondered why the call for direct pressure did not come. After watching for some little time and hearing no signal I started the pumps and put on ninety pounds pressure. Doing this I could easily see there was trouble with the hose. Every little while the pressure would go up to 100 pounds. This was warning to me that you had closed a hydrant. At the moment the hydrant was opened the pressure would drop to 90 pounds. From the time the alarm was sent in, at 9:45 until the fire was struck out at 12:40, I pumped 175,000 gallons of water. I only used one pump."

Mr. Putnam is a very careful and experienced engineer, having passed examination as an engineer to take charge of marine engines on the lakes, the Mississippi, Missouri, and Ohio rivers, and the Gulf of Mexico. He had charge of the engines in the Racine water works for some time.

TWO TIP-OVERS ON ONE RUN.

Superintendent Mitchell Thrown Under a Buggy in Avoiding a Collision.

Superintendent Mitchell had two tip-overs yesterday. He left the pump station on receiving the fire alarm, going to the stand-pipe to see that the valve had tripped all right. Arriving at Peace Court he met No. 2 horse carriage returning for more hose. He was driving at full speed, and so was Murphy. He realized that Murphy was doing the right of way and the heavier vehicle, so he pulled to one side, and seeing as he pulled that his only chance was to turn quickly into Peace Court, he did so. The buggy, horse and driver all turned, not only into Peace Court, but right over and over. The horse and buggy turned over twice, and Mitchell rolled over until he got out of the way. Straggled over the damaged carriage, Mitchell straightened up the buggy, and started on a run for the stand-pipe. When he turned into Caroline street he went over again. This time he broke the cross-bar and one of the bows of the top. He got to the stand-pipe on time, however, and found everything all right.

P. J. Rice Losing His Grip.

P. J. Rice, the traveling salesman for F. M. Marzuff & Company, arrived in the city today. Peter never came back yet that an alarm of fire was not turned in within sixteen minutes after he arrived. This time the fire was a day in advance, so "Peter" says he does not fear prosecution by the insurance companies.

BATH HOUSE UNDER THE BRIDGE.

Cool Retreat For Janesville Boys Afforded By New Stores.

"I say, Percy, that will be a daisy place for us boys to go in bathing," remarked a little ten-year-old as he greeted a companion on Milwaukee street, calling his attention to the space in the river being covered by the new Jeffries building. "Just look at it. When they get the Sutherland building up we will have all the room we want under cover. We will be out of the sun and no danger of getting our backs blistered. My father told me he would get one of the aldermen to pass an ordinance allowing us boys to swim under the bridge. It will make a great place," and the boys made a thorough examination of the new building and quietly walked away feeling satisfied that they would have a good place for bathing during the hot days of the coming summer. They may change their minds, however, when summer time comes and they accidentally swim into the current of one of the numerous sewers in that locality. But the average boy is fond of adventure, and he may be willing to brave all these objections for the sake of plunge in the Rock.
